

Take your first step on the property ladder with an HSBC mortgage

YOUR HOME MAY BE REPOSSESSED IF YOU DO NOT KEEP UP REPAYMENTS ON YOUR MORTGAGE. Subject to status. T&Cs apply.

Learn more

NEW YORK ▾ EN ▾

TimeOut

SUBSCRIBE

Things to Do

Food & Drink

Culture

Theater

Travel

Time Out Market

Love Local

Time In

News

More ▾

Photograph: Courtesy of Times Square Arts

A tower of laurels is coming to the middle of Times Square

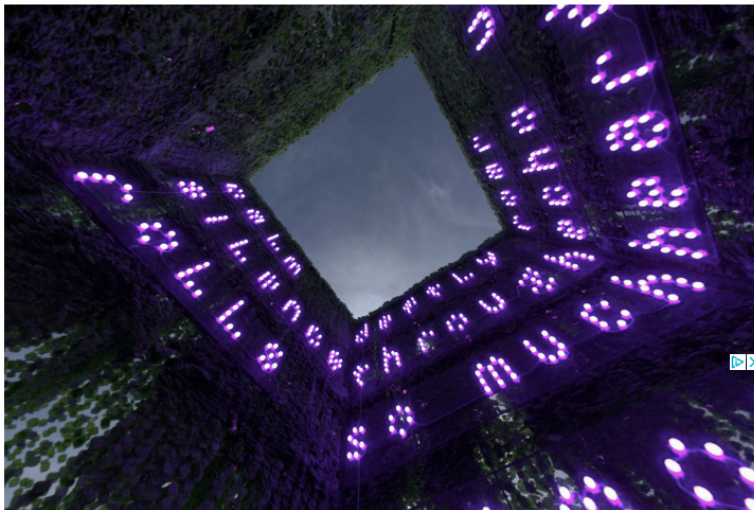

The new public installation "The Poem" opens on April 8.

Written by Anna Rahmanan Thursday March 24 2022

A new piece of public art will take up residence in Times Square on April 8.

Photograph: Courtesy of Times Square Arts

"The Poem," by Cuban-born artist Raúl Cordero, is a 20-foot tower featuring a cascade of mount laurel hiding an illuminated haiku inside of it. How cool is that?

Work in Progress

The 2022 State of Distributed Work: Tech Sector

Download Report

Discover key insights and predictions for the state of distributed work in 2022

Sponsored by Velocity Global

Microsoft calls the remote work environment the "new normal." Download Work in Progress: The 2022 State of Distributed Work for trends and insights into what tech leaders predict for 2022.

Learn more

Popular on Time Out

A massive Japanese street food festival is coming to Chelsea

The 50 best restaurants in NYC right now

The 95 best things to do in NYC for locals and tourists

The best things to do in NYC this weekend

NYC events in April 2022

cab engine

Increase your revenue with a futureproof e-commerce strategy

Book a FREE E-Commerce Workshop

Sponsored by cab engine

How did your e-commerce platform perform in 2021? Having an omni-channel approach, coupled with strategic testing and tools, a developer will be able approach combined with rigorous testing and grade A development will be the key to success within 2022. Find out how cab engine has helped many businesses not only achieve, but succeed within the marketplace today!

Learn more

Hey, sushi lovers! This is especially for you! 🍣 Miami-based Japanese restaurant @eatlikebubu is...

"The landscaped structure is designed to narrow the sensory overload of Times Square to a concentrated line of vision, drawing the eye to a patch of open sky and the words of the poem overhead," reads an official description of the work, which will stay put through May 4. "Playing with the architecture and energy of Times Square, Cordero offers us a respite from the attention economy in the form of poetry and nature."

Barry Schwabsky, a poet, created the haiku specifically for the installation. You'll notice that the characters of the piece light up in glowing bulbs of black light attached to the interior of the foliage. Given the way that each letter and word takes shape, viewers will have to linger to take in the entire message—and that's on purpose.

"[The setup] is emblematic of Cordero's ongoing investigation into [the] effects of the digital age on the human mind, specifically our waning ability to focus and the increasing urge to relentlessly multitask," reads the description. To put it simply: the new art piece seeks to calm New Yorkers down.

In addition to the installation, the artist will present a slew of text-based video works on the billboards that define the neighborhood, plus free public programs that will feature the city's diverse poetry community. You can expect readings and live performances by artists including LaTasha Nevada Diggs and Paolo Javier.

There's just something about seeking peace and calm in the middle of the hustle-and-bustle of Times Square that makes the entire experience so New York. Right?

Love doing stuff in your city? Tell us all about it in our annual, global, Time Out Index survey.

SHARE THE STORY

An email you'll actually love

Get into a relationship with our newsletter. Discover the best of the city, first.

Enter email address

Subscribe

By entering your email address you agree to our Terms of Use and Privacy Policy and consent to receive emails from Time Out about news, events, offers and partner promotions.

Latest news

This New Yorker is baking Passover treats from an apartment

A Selfie Station has landed at JFK Airport

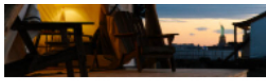

This fabulous Easter cake from Morgenstern's is now available to pre-order

See actual moon dust at this NYC auction house this week

Six artists can glamp on Governors Island for one month free

You can now donate to the Ukrainian cause via NYC billboards

This NYC street is now officially called Tin Pan Alley

Over 100 NYC streets will go car-free later this month

Spicy chicken McNuggets at McDonald's are back!

This new Williamsburg Chinese restaurant has an all-day happy hour

See the new Museum of Chinese in America set to open in 2025

A massive Japanese street food festival is coming to Chelsea

H&H Bagels is finally returning to the Upper West Side

Giant sculptures of endangered animals have

Everything we know about the upcoming Russ & Daughters

See photos of NYC buildings lit up in honor of Trans Day of